IMPREZA XV

Introducing a new crossover:

A vehicle that combines the versatility and off-road ability that Subaru SUV's are renowned for, with the style and effortless handling of a hatch. Newly designed to break conventions, it's made for drivers who are looking to escape the norm and go their own way. Meet the new Impreza XV. It's tough enough to go off-road and nimble enough to get around town.

Higher ground clearance is what makes the Impreza XV such a practical and adventurous vehicle, letting you take to roads less travelled with confidence and ease. Whichever path you choose, you can do it in style, thanks to 16-inch alloy wheels and a tough and capable body kit comprising of a front grille, bumper, roof spoiler, roof rails, side mouldings, and front fog lights – all standard, yet far from ordinary.

An electric sunroof is available as an option for those who like to drive on the bright side of life.

Impreza XV's crossover philosophy carries through to the inside, where distinct earthy tones, including sporty bucket seats with mocha accents, stitching detail and door inserts ensure a supportive ride, no matter the road surface.

Of course, this doesn't mean you compromise on any of the latest technologies. As well as cruise control, central locking, power windows and climate control air-conditioning the Impreza XV is packed with features. Bluetooth[®] wireless technology¹ gives you easy hands-free calling from your mobile phone, so you're always in touch with what's going on and who's going where. A USB port means you can listen to your favourite playlist on the 10-speaker audio system while charging your iPod².

The Impreza XV, your car, for going your way.
